In conclusion, your Committee cannot In conclusion, your Committee cannot too highly commend what has seemed to them the marked and distinguishing features of this Institution, the happy combination of the military system of instruction with the departments of science and of literary culture, and the more ennobling culture of the heart and soul. Nowhere culture of the heart and soul. Nowhere else have we seen this combination so complete and perfect. We cannot speak of it too highly. It is such a system as fits a pupil for life and for death. Under its guidance he is sure to tread always the path of duty, virtue and honor.

WARE,

Jarvis Signally Triumphant!! [NEWS EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

Under the induces of political excitement, partium feeling often misleads the most candid minds into an exaggerated estimate of the merits of favorites, especially so if these favorites are seen or heard but once. I have been scrupulously careful not to exaggerate the merits of Gov. Jarvis, nor to detract from those of Judge Buxton as public speakers, and now after seeing and hearing them together the third time. I feel that I will be sustained by every impartial man who was present when I say that in all our history there have never been two candidates before our people for a prominent position who were so unequally matched.

Jarvis is a quick, ready, fluent and strong debater, surpassing the expectations of his most ardent admirers; but his strength after all is in the strength of his cause. Judge Buxton is wanting in every single qualification as a speaker, but his great weakness is in the weakness of his cause. Not less than twenty-five hundred men assembled here to-day to hear these representatives of the two parties. JUDGE BUXTON.

who opened the discussion, was troduced by Mr. J. T. Sharpe, and spoke for one and a half hours, repeating essentially and substantially the same speech delivered at Kenansville and Kinston. He introduced no new points. and although the representative Republicans of this section were present and hosts of his colored friends, he succeeded, during that long and tedious time, in eliciting a faint and feeble clapping of hands by three negroes. His stereotyped speech, consisting of all manner of inconsistencies and pointless platitudes, when scanned by a reporter for the third time, is too dull and monotonous to inflict upon the readers of THE NEWS again.

The only presentable form in which it would be accepted by our readers, would be in the dissected, mutilated, and ventiing and destructive analysis of Governor Jarvis. A noticeable omission, was the failure to tell his hearers of his early training under the teachings of the old Fayetteville Observer, which may be ascribed to the withering sarcasm with which this claim was handled by Gov. Jarvis on last Saturday. His time having been worn and dragged out, Dr. A. G. Brooks, in a very handsome little speech, introduced

GOVERNOR JARVIS. The Governor was in good trim, and in one of his happiest moods. He was cool, collected and pleasant in his manner, but he addressed himself to the speech and party of the Judge with earnest vigor.

The Judge opened by saving that he came here to make no appeals to passion, to color lines, or to the bitter memories of the past, and yet over half of his speech was an insidious appeal to the worst passions and impulses of our nature. He had truly said that the old parties were true to the interests of the country, and were for peace; but where has been peace for this country since his party came into power He has stood for one and a half hours abusing his own people, of his section, of his State, of his blood, and not one word has he uttered against that party of corruption, of fraud, and of general wickedness. Like all the bomb-proof politicians of the country, his controlling idea is strife, dissension and hate for his own people. He came here, he says, to "talk of Southern rights"-I am here to talk of "Southern wrongs." His party was made up of Union men men of national love and principle. "Judge, where was Mr. Barringer, your candidate for Lieutenaut Governor, during the war?"

Judge B .- " He was in the war." Gov. J.—"Trying to destroy the Union And where was Norment, your candidate for Secretary of State, and Moore, your candidate for Attorney General?"

Judge B.—" They were in the war."

Gov. J .- " Trying to destroy the Union?" Well, the Judge was improving in answering questions and he would try

"Judge, if you are elected it will be chiefly by the colored people of the State, and I ask you to tell them and our white friends whether, if a vacancy should occur. you would appoint a colored man to the office of Judge ?"

"Would you in that case appoint a colored man as Solicitor ?" "Would you appoint colored men a R. R. Directors or as Directors of the Asy-when he (the Gov.) was a boy. The first vote he ever gave was for this very measure. "And how did you vote on that question, Judge?" Judge B. answered: "I voted against it."

And yet he comes here and holds up to the admiration of his willing followers this as a new principle, found in a Constitution that was written with the pen of inspira tion rather than by those who robbed and plundered our State. He knows it was done twenty years before the birth of his glorious Constitution, and he says it was done against his will, for he voted against it. Again, he claims that this same model constitution abolished imprisonment for debt, and yet the Judge was a member of the Convention of '65, when a stay law was passed of which Judge Howard was the author, which embodied this very feature-three years before his constitu tion had being.

The sale of the Western North Caro ina Railroad was a sweet morsel for th Judge in certain eastern counties. He wa particularly happy and felicitous on thi subject. And the Governor proceeded to give a clear and satisfactory statement of that matter. He forgot to say that in that Constitution was another grand feature-forbidding the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus-that bulwark of personal liberty, and yet in less than two years from its adoption the party of the Judge was the first to violate and trample it under foot. And thus the Governor took up and disposed of each and every point presented in the Judge's speech until the work was done, and done handsomely, completely, and to the satisfaction and delight of the Governor's friends and to the dismay of the Republicans. The Governor illustrated the freaks in the record of the Judge and his party by apt and telling anecdotes, and was frequently interrupted by justice, we don't think it is a fool. It rounds of hearty applause.

Gov. Jarvis is not an eloquent man in the ordinary sense, but he possesses in a remarkable degree the rare faculty of impressing his hearers with his arguments in manner that gives to each of them food to take home with them. I venture that the most illiterate of his hearers can repeat months hence many of the points that he made. His speeches go direct to the reason, judgment and heart. They cannot be forgotten and will not be to the latest day of his life by one of his constant and most attentive and mortified hearers. A friend remarked to-day that "he makes a very remarkable talk for one who can't make a speech." Should the Governor sustain himself throughout the campaign, he will be assigned to the distinguished position of being classed among the foremost of the best campaigners the State has ever produced.

The candidates go to Smithfield to-morrow, and I learn that the active Democrats of Johnston are preparing to give Gov. Jarvis a handsome reception.

P. S.-I omitted to mention that W. S. O'B. Robinson, who deserves the title of the radical Radical Elector, was called out by the negroes, and after hearing his harangue of blackguardism (for it cannot be truthfully dignified with any higher name). I could but congratulate Gov. Jarvis on escaping the clutches of this powerful champion of foul-mouthed ranting.

TAXES.

The telegrams printed in THE NEWS in egard to the late Radical Conference in New York have very plainly indicated that no hope is entertained of "counting in" a single Southern State for GARFIELD. But they have as plainly shown that neither work nor money will be spared to carry here and there a Congressional District in the South. The talk is of three in North Carolina. The threatened Districts are, we suppose, the first, second and third, and our friends in all the Districts, but especially in these, are cautioned to look to their organization. Every vote in the House of Representatives is worth money to every man, woman and child in the South, for until the Democrats attain to a good working majority therein, there is no chance of relief from the burdens of a taxation far more grievous than our State. county and town taxes combined. North Carolina ought to send at least seven Democrats to the next Congress, and will do so if Democrats do their duty.

The effort to win Congressmen in th South is made in the interest of protective tariffs, and whatever may be lacking of purely party campaign funds will be readily supplemented by the interested classes. They can afford to give of the money of which under the forms of law they have robbed us, that the same forms of law may enable them to continue to rob us. There is scarcely an article we eat, or drink, or wear, or work with, except those we make ourselves, which does not pay heavy tribute to Northern manufacturers. while few of them add a dollar to the revenues of the Government for its own support, for the payment of the debt. and for the reduction of internal taxation. Yet it was for this very purpose that power was granted to Congress "to levy and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises." The effect of such taxes on domestic industries was a secondary consideration. What we want, and what the Constitution allows, is a tariff for hibitory tariff ought to be sufficient Whatever in addition to the government's necessary expenses is taken from the perple is highway robbery under the forms of law. As a correspondent of this paper lately said, the case is too plain for argument, that tariffs for protection-so-called -are worthless to produce valuable results to the manufacturer unless the tax opcrates upon the larger number of the people. In any other condition it can do no good to the parties demanding it. The advocates of the system hold up the "laboring man" as the one whom they are so anxious to benefit, when everybody who ought to be outside of a lunatic asylum knows that the manufacturer is looking solely to his own profits. He employs the "laboring man" at the very lowest wages which will command his services and then sells his commodities at the highest price he can get. He has the advantage of about forty per cent. over the manufacturers of other countries, and is thus enabled to get that much more for the goods which he has to sell than he could if absolute free trade prevailed. A strictly revenue tariff would probably give him the benefit of twenty or twenty-five per cent., yet he is not content with that, but has the inpudence—for impudence it is—to ask that the tax shall be so high, that foreign competition shall be destroyed and he and his band can combine and put prices up on the "laboring man," and all the other consumers of the country.

THE CHICAGO Tribune is on the rampage about a new "Southern Outrage." It has been abusing us for not growing in population and wealth, and now that the census shows that we have grown in both. it denounces the census as a lie and the takers of it as frauds. The Chicago Tribune is either fool or knave, and to do it knows that many of its readers are ignorant and plays upon their lack of knowledge when it tells them, by way of showing that our census is a lie, that "North Carolina is one of the poorest States in the Union. Its soil is sandy, and turpentine-growing is its principal industry !" The industrious emigrants who have found homes in North Carolina tell a different tale to those they left behind them, we judge, for in spite of such political falsification and slander, men dissatisfied with life in the cities and mills and on the sterile farms of the North keep on coming here, securing happiness and prosperity for themselves and adding to the wealth and population of a State unequaled in climate and variety

WE HAVE very great respect for people who stand by their friends and their folk, and we fully appreciate the filial affection of Messrs. OAKES A. AMES, OLIVER AMES, FRANK M. AMES, who enter the lists to defend the character of the dead OAKES AMES, their father. But our respect for their sensibilities, and our regard for their father's memory, would be materially increased by their proposal to pay us for printing half a dozen columns about the deceased's railroad honesty. When they supplement their first letter to us, avowing their personal responsibility for the truth of what they say, with another accepting the same responsibility for an advertising bill of $150, we shall take some interest in Mr. AMES'S affairs. Un til then, we share the absence of concern in him which is common in this section since it ceased to buy shovels from the de-

THE TAXES COLLECTED from the peo ple of this country since the end of the war ought to have maintained the Govern ment and paid off the whole of its debt One-fourth of the doot has been paid, and the Radicals ask the gratitude of the country, probably on the principle that they could have stolen four-fourths as easily as three-fourths, and were content with the three-fourths. Certain'y there is no other occasion for gratitude. But for the Radicals there would have been no debt. Unfortunately there were Radicals and is a debt, which the people, and nct the Radicals, are paying.

EVEN South Carolina disappoints the Radicals. Census returns from 23 counties show a population of 709,934, against 525,789 in 1870; increase of more than 35 per cent. Nine counties are yet to roport. The State will hold its present representation in Congress, even if the apportionment be raised to 170,000.

ALAMANCE CROPS :-

Mebaneville, N. C., Aug. 10, 1880 .-There was considerable damage done to crops in bottom lands in some places last week by the rain. Haw River was very high, mills were stopped, corn was injured very much. But the damage to bottom corn will be balanced by the benefit to upland corn. Farmers are not discouraged. The fruit has been injured, especially the grapes We now have pleasant weather, which doubtless will repair the damages to a very great extent. In some places the people have acted very promptly in working the country roads, which were badly washed.

and fine spirits. We had a very good breeze last week, though no fishing for blue fish until Saturday, when a good number were caught. Among the prominent arrivals here last week we notice General R. F. Hoke, Col. Andrews, Major Sully, of Petersburg, Col. Talcott, of Richmond, Capt. I. A. Sugg, of Greenville, North Carolina, former law partner of Governor Jarvis, Capt. T. W. Battle, of Rocky Mount, and many others. Among the most handsome of the ladies are Mrs. Governor Jarvis, Mrs. Eugene Morehead, Mrs. I. A. Sugg, Mrs. R. F. Hoke. Mrs. Lathrop, of Georgia, aunt of Mrs. Morehead, and many other very handsome matrons, who are enjoying the fine breeze and the many pleasures of this life, the people are w casting about for some wholesome assements. Knowing by the late census what an alarming extent the foxes hav increased, they have lately engaged in series of hunts.

Friday morning the 6th, dawned cool and cloudy, and e hunters perceiving the prospect of a finerun, were in their sadlles and on foot an early hour. Seventeen horsemen ad twenty footmen, with a large pack o well kept hounds, soon athered from A quarters of the township. Such hunters ad such dogs are not ofter seen. The hops sounded, the dogs sent up their mello notes to the clouds, the horses prance, and all were off at a rapid pace. On the went, over fences, through fields, into the dripping woods and beyond. Not a brancimor as wollen creek could stop them now, fir they were fully in the maze of a charming first-class run. Farmers wives and daughters stopped their work and stood in the doors admiring the gallant riders as they passed and listening to the music of the chase. Fresh reinforcemenus were constantly coming in from all sides, and now the toxes and try their utmost speed or there is no chance to compa their bold pursuers.

Now the dogs are close upon a fox: the hunters encourage them; the fox is losing ground; the dogs are upon him; the foremost hunter captures the fox and secures his tail. This is repeated. Three foxes mark their success; four are caught by 12 o'clock and the hunters and dogs, animate by their success, are still eager for the chase, but the rain sets in and unwillingly they quit the field which was late the scene of so much triumph. The hunters blew the dogs off and soon they had separated, filled with zeal for the cause and admiration for the dogs.

Before they parted arrangements were made for another run, wherein they expect to achieve as much glory as they did on August 6th, 1880.

Help the Afflicted.

[From the New York Herald.] Many years ago, when we were very much less philosophical and far less stonyhearted than we are now, a poor wretch in tatters told a pitiful story which touched our heartstrings and our pursestrings at the same time. He wanted to go from New York to Portland to see a sick wife. It never occurred to us to ask why in the world he had left his sick wife in the first instance, so we deliberately handed him the necessary funds, hoping that it would be remembered up above as an offset to certain other things which it is not necesday in December, and we gave the pilgrim a pair of only half-worn shoes, a good flannel undervest and a clean shirt. We prided ourselves on that act of benevolence, partly because it occupies a rather conspicuous position in our life. We are not given to that sort of thing, and the sensations which good people always tell us follow a virtuous action were certainly agreeable. The next day, however, the pilgrim returned, saying that a sharper had robbed him of the money, and that after taking a glass of milk at a corner grocery he had fallen asleep, and that during his innocent slumber some one had made way with the ap parel which we had bestowed. The man breath was sufficient to prove that that particular kind of milk is too strong for general use. He simply answered our query with a sigh, and suggested that in a great city like this unprincipled persons adulterate food and that possibly the milk had been weakened by a generous introduction of ardent spirits. It occurred to us to say that even in large cities corner grocers are not generally philanthropists and would probably hesitate before adulterating ten cents' worth of milk with fifty

Another Campaign of Hate.

[From the New York Herald.] Beyond peradventure the four represen-tative speakers in that conference [the Garfield Campaign Conference at New York last week] were Senators Blaine and Logan, Secretary Sherman and General Harrison. What did they set up in their speeches for the issues in this Presidential paign? Mr. Blaine said that the issue is whether "the men who fought the civil war shall surrender to the men who fought against the Union." Mr. Logan said that it is whether "the loyal men of this land who stood by her constitution and flag when the sword and flame were applied to the temple," or "the rebel army and the copperheads of the North" shall have the "right to govern this country."
Mr. Sherman said it is whether "the Republican party shall resign to the solid South, headed by Wade Hampton and the Ku-Klux Klan, and a little segment in the Northern States calling itself the Democratic party." Gen. Harrison said it is "how we will defend Washington against the enemy that once opposed it in arms." If these assertions are not a revival of the old sectional issues. what are they? Why Hancock Should Be Elected.

[Judge David Davis] Great as were the achievements of Gen Hancock in war, his conduct in peace, when in command of Louisiana and Texas in 1867, was still greater, and justly commends him to the confidence of the coun try. That was a time when passion ruled in the public councils, and military power was exerted to silence civil authority. The temptation was strong to sail with the rushing current, for an inflamed partisan opinion was too ready to condone excesses cock's Order No. 40, in assuming charge of the Fifth Military District, announced 'The right of trial by jury, the habeas corpus, the liberty of the press, the free-dom of speech, the natural rights of persons, and the rights of property must be respected." These principles are the basis of free government, and the proclamation of them by Gen. Hancock stands out in striking contrast with the action of his superior, who soon after rebuked and drove him from that command for uttering sentiments worthy of all honor. The soldier. clothed with extraordinary power, voluntarily uncovered before the civil authority. sheathe d his sword, testified his fidelity to the Constitution, and set an example of obedience to law which will pass into history as his proudest claim to distinction. The man who, in the midst of the excitements of that stormy period, was cool enough to see his duty clearly, and courageous enough to execute it firmly, may be well trusted in auy crisis. His letter to Gen. Sherman. recently brought to light, hits Gen. Han cock far above the past appreciation of his civil ability. It marks him as one of the wisest of his time, with a statesman's grasp of mind, and with the integrity of a pe triot whom no sense of expediency could swerve from his honest convictions.

A Change Needed.

[Judge David Davis.]

Long and unchecked possession power by any party leads to extravagance, corruption, and loose practices. After 20 years of domination by the Republicans, chronic abuses have become fastened upor the public service like barnacles on the bottom of a stranded ship. There is no hope of reform by leaders who have created a system of mal-administration. and who are interested in perpetuating its evils. Nothing short of the sternest remedy gives any promise of effective reform, and the first step toward it is in change of rulers. The Government must be got out of the ruts in which it has too long been run. New blood must be infused into the management of public affairs before relief can be expected. The people demand a change, and, being in carnest, they are likely to be gratified.

"How shall we get the young men to church!" is the title of an article in a religious weekly. Get the girls to go, sainted brother, get the girls to go.

The answer which M. de Calonne gave lady who had petitioned for a favor would make a good maxim for a young man's life:--"Madame," he said, "if the thing is possible, it is done already; if it is impossible, it shall be done."

"Your future husband seems very exacting; he has been stipulating for all sorts of things," said a mother to her daughter, who was on the point of being married. "Never mind, mamma," said the affectionate girl, who was already dressed for the wedding, "these are his last wishes.

CINCINNATI'S LAW OFFICERS IN A RIOT

CINCINNATI, August 8.-A tragedy took place just before dark this evening, at the Central Police Station, in which ex-Chief of Police Snelbaker and Police Offi cer Chumley were the principal actors, Snelbaker, since his retirement from the chief's office, has been running the Vine street Opera-house, in which is employed Virgie Jackson, an actress, who also sustains relations of intimacy with the proprietor. Late this afternoon, Snelbaker and Miss Jackson entered a street car at Fifth and Vine streets, and found there Ella Chumley, a former mistress of Snel-baker. The discarded woman immediately began an assault upon the reigning favorite. In an instant there was a com motion, several policemen and a crowd of people running after the car. The driver whipped up the horses, and a lively chase began up Vine-street. When opposite the Enquirer office, police officer Chumley boarded the car, and finding that his own daughter was one of the combatants, began an assault upon Snelbaker. The car was stopped, and the whole party arrested All were being taken to the station-house. when John R. McLean, who happened to witness the fracas, interfered, and had Snelbaker taken into his private room in the Enquirer office, from which he was subsequently taken to the Police station in a carriage. At the station Chumley and Snelbaker met and indulged in recriming tions, during which Chumley advanced to ward Snelbaker, when the latter drew pistol and began firing. A dozen policemen standing by seized him, but he reached his arm around one of them and fired again. Three shots took effect. One entered Chumley's groin, and another struck inside and passed through the body, coning out near the spine. The third entered near the same spot and remains in the body. The policeman is still alive, but is thought to be in a dying condition. Snelbaker was lodged in a cell. The affair has created great excitement in police and sporting circles, in which Chumley and Snelbaker are prominent characters.

Europe's Grain Prospect

[From the New York Tribune.] The reports as to the condition of the crops in Europe are by no means so favorable to American growers as they were some weeks ago. Most of the crop in France has been saved, and it is thought to be up to the average in quantity. Recent storms in some parts of Great Britain have done much damage to the grain, and yet the prospect at latest mail dates was considered generally good. The yield will probably fall below the average, but will be much larger than that of last year. Reports from Germany are fair for wheat; Italy expects a bountiful yield, and in Roumania and Hungary the promise is good. Thus the yield in Europe, except ing in Russia, appears likely to be decidedly larger than that of 1879, and the course prices in Mark Lane shows that the ass tained surplus in this country is expected to be more than sufficient to meet all demands from Europe. Tidings from Russia are exceedingly conflicting. The report that prohibition of grain exports was contemplated has been authoritatively contradicted. and, though it is conceded that the viele will be much smaller than it was last year, it must be remembered that the official reports show that 80,182,704 bushels of wheat were exported from Russia in 1879. The ascertained deficit of yield this year in forty districts, said in one report to be 9,700,000 "quarters," may probably mean only 9,700,000 bushels, because in the same report, as forwarded to this country. "quarters" are repeatedly mentioned when bushels are obviously meant. A shipping house at Odessa writes that the crops of 1880 will be on the whole satisfactory. while a correspondent of The London Miller, writing at the same date, reports general and serious injury. Perhaps the est evidence is that at the latest dates the price of wheat at Odessa had materially declined.

ITEMS OF CHURCH NEWS :-

The Presbyterian Church has 631,952 children in its Sunday schools, showing an increase of over 17,000 the past year.

There are in the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts 150 clergymen and 17,189 communicants. There were 1,919 baptisms the past year, of which 200 were of adults. There were no less than 1,008 burials. In Connecticut, a wife and daughter left the church in which the head of the family worshiped and rented a pew in another church. The husband and father refused to pay for it, and was sued. The judgment of the court was in his favor. The Diocese of Pennsylvania (Protest ant Episcopal,) including Philadelphia and the surrounding country, has 117 churches 199 clergymen, and 25,263 communicants. The value of the church property is estimated at $6,600,000. The money annually raised for the salaries of the clergymen amounts to $185,000. The Presbyterian Church, according to a statistical report just made by Dr. Hatfield, has 38 Synods, 177 Presbyteries, 3 decrease of 2; 600 candidates for the ministry, a decrease of 14: 294 licentiates. a decrease of 12: 5.044 ministers, an increase of 107; 5,489 churches, an increase of 74; 578,671 communicants, an increase of 4,185. The total of collections for the year was $8,361,028, showing an increase of over $101,000. Of those collections, $430,000 was for home missions, $420,000 for foreign missions, $109,000 for education, $48,000 for the Freedmen, $21,000 for sustentation, and $151,815 for church erection. Upward of 29,000 persons were added on examination, and 20,623 by certificate. One hundred and six churches were organized and 36 dissolved Of ministers, 97 died, 17 were dismissed and 58 were received. There were 18,960 baptisms of infants, and 9,232 of adults.

A WORTHY CITIZEN GONE.—At his residence on Halifax street, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning, Capt. Alexander W. Lawrence breathed his last, not unexpectedly, however, for he had for several weeks been confined to his bed.

Of Capt. Lawrence's early history we know but little other than that he received his primary preparation for college in Ral-eigh. In 1849 he finished his preparatory course and entered the University at Chapel Hill, and in 1853 with the highest honors of his class was graduated. He had a particular fondness for, and was especially proficient in mathematics, and soon after his graduation was selected for an appointment by the Secretary of the Navy in the National Observatory at Washington. This high and responsible position he filled, winning the proud distinction of being one of the most correct and perfect officers of that institution. In the spring of 1861, when his native State adopted the ordinance of secession, he resigned his position at Washington and joined the Confederate army, serving as ordnance officer under Col. Gorgas, stationed at Richmond. From all who were associated with him during his army career, nothing but words of praise have been said. He was loved as a soldier and as a man by all his comrades and associates.

After the close of the war and the surrender, he returned to this city and engaged in the business of insurance, in which he was engaged at the time of his death. Always an active and correct business man, he is largely the cause of building up the immense insurance business now done here.

Capt. Lawrence was never married. His entire love and affection seemed insufficient for his aged mother and a sister. The latter died some years past, but his mother still survives him. Kind and generous to a fault, there are hosts of friends and acquaintances who will deeply mourn the death of Capt. A. W. Lawrence. His funeral services will take place from

Christ Church this morning at 10:30 o'clock, to which the friends and acquaintance of the family are respectfully invited. Yesterday the Raleigh Board of Underwriters, of which Capt. Lawrence was a member, met and passed the following resolutions: WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God, in His wise providence, to remove from our midst and from the scenes of his usefulness, our friend and associate, A. W. Lawrence, late secretary of this board,

THAT SO-CALLED BACE .- We are so Aid of horses and of racing, that it is relly painful to us to see the noblest sprt in the world so degraded as it was bythe miserable fiasco and humbug at the Fa Grounds yesterday. The main trot, the between Blue Wing and Almont, whih the people went to see, and paid the money to see, did not come off a all and the other, between Electra, Buckskimnd Chancey, did not arise to the digny of a first-class humbug. Having said is much we feel it due to Pomeroy and Jusey, the drivers of Electra and Chaniy, to say that they were in no wise respondle for the disgraceful exhibition. Both of them drove their horses and behaved themselves with perfect propriety. Poneroy drove his mare of at her very best in every heat, and whe in our judgment, Pusey did not try twin the first heat, he had a perfeet rightnot to win it if by saving his horse he creased his chances to win the race; and i the two last heats he unques tionably dive the grey mare for every inch there as in her, until on the third quarter of te last heat Buckskin ran into him and to his wheel to pieces, when of course he bught her to a stop.

The resulf the whole thing is that Darby and I peful and Maud S. and St. Julien might rot on this track to-morrow and not a sou would go to see them.

GETTING AS MONEY BACK .- The day that Catesy started for the Central Stakes, at Balmore, it is said that his owner, Gov. Beie, refused $10,000 for him. Two hou afterward the colt had broken down, at, for a race horse, was not worth a cent but for all that, it may well be that the overnor did well in not selling him. Hisoldest son, Crickmore, named after the be writer on racing mat-ters in America, I. H. G. Crickmore, of the World, is one the best 2-year olds out, and with good luck will more than pay back his sire's rice. Catesby is by imported Eclipse, who beat the two thou-sand winner, and ran dead heat with the Derby winner of his year for the Newmarket stakes. THE BEST OF THE BONNIE SCOT-LANDS.—Luke Blackburn has won his right to be called the best colt of his year, and the best son of the great imported horse Bonnie Scotland. Last Saturday he won the Grand Union Stakes at Saratoga, with 116 pounds up, in exactly the same time it was won in last year by the four vear old Danicheff, with 113 pounds. But this performance, good as it is, was made Blackburn was giving big weight to some of the very best horses of the day. To Glenmore, who at Baltimore last fall won the three best heats of four miles ever run. he gave 20 pounds; to One Dime, who at Lexington and Chicago, proved himself swifter than dreams, putting to his credit the best mile and a quarter on record, and beating Long Taw, he gave 22; and to Gen. Phillips, who, in his four year form, won thirteen races without ever being headed, he gave 35. When it is remembered that in a race every ounce tells, and that a difference of seven pounds in weight is equal to a distance, it will be seen what these figures mean, and it will be seen that the bay son of Bonnie Scotland and Nevada deserves his hard-earned title of

VERY CARELESS .- Careless driving was once prevalent in Raleigh, but by prompt action on the part of our police, it was abated. Recently this carelessness has begun to grow, and yesterday a lady and her children were driving up Wilmington street when the driver of a dray ran the shaft of his vehicle into the lady's carriage. That no accident did occur is not sufficient. Had it not been for the prompt assistance rendered by several gentlemen near by, and the exceeding gentleness of the horses, a life or lives might have been endangered. Prompt and severe punishment should be meted out to such careless Messrs. P. Reynolds, J. R. Webster and James D. Glenn were then placed in nomination for the House. As Rockingham is entitled to two members of the House, the chair decided to ballot for one at a time. On the first ballot J. R. Webster received 45 votes, James D. Glenn 20, and P. Reynolds 18. Mr. Webster was declared the nominee, and the Convention proceeded to vote for the other member, on which ballot James D. Glenn received 801 of the 83 votes.

J. S. Johnston was nominated for sheriff, and the balance of the county officers were all renominated.

Maj. John W. Graham, who was pres ent. was called on and made a very practical and telling speech. Mr. James W Reid, of Wentworth, also made a very fine address. All the candidates responded in short speeches. Everything passed off happily. You may put old Rockingham down for Hancock at 800 majority. DEMOCRAT.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS :-

The harvest prospects in Ireland are again causing great anxiety. The rains during the last fortnight have been excessive. Potatoes are generally sound but blight is visible in many fields. Green crops promise an abundant yield.

Though the harvesting of wheat in the northern portions of Minnesota and Da-kota is not yet finished, and the increase of yield in those sections is expected to be very large, there is no longer reason to doubt that a crop of wheat much larger than that of last year has been saved.

During the first six months of this year, period when building is always most ac tive in the city, over 1,100 new buildings were begun in New York. Though the number of new buildings begun in the six months is somewhat less than that for the corresponding period of 1879, their estimated cost is about $3,000,000 greater. That is, the present demand is for better structures, and a larger amount of capital is invested in the buildings.

The little notes are never seen in circu lation to-day, and therefore there are some who will be astonished by the assertion that there are more than fifteen million dollars' worth of fractional currency still in the country, and in the hands of the people. At least, that is their condition as shown upon the books of the Treasury Department. They were issued, and have never been returned for redemption and destruction.

THE PENITENT PLUNDERER AND THE FARMER'S CHILD: A LEGEND OF THE UNPLEASANTNESS.

[From the Sunday World.]
"All hail, all hail, thou old farmer,
With brown and brawny hands,
That from thy doorway looketh forth Across thy fertile lands— All hail, all hail, thou old farmer;"

But his foot the farmer stamps—
"Swim out, swim out!" he sternly cries,
"Naught have we got for tramps."
"Who spoke of tramps or asked for aught?
What art thou giving me?
Though white with dust and travel worn, I am an F. F. V.;
I wore the gay Confederate gray
In July, '63,
And to the field of Gettysburg

I marched with General Lee That Gettysburg that to the left Scarce a league off thou mayst see,
So listen to the tale I tell—
It may be well for thee.

"'Twas, as I've said, in '63, Of June the latest day, We did invade the sovereign State Of Penn-syl-van-i-a.

I will not tell how bullets sang,
Hissed, zipped and shrieked and tore,
And how the loud artillery Did to the heavens roar.

I'll tell of those who did not fight,

But when the guns did boom Requisitioned private property, Of which I then was whom. Unsoldierly 'tis true, but then
How scanty was our pay,
And the owners of the farm-houses
Round here had fled away—

Round here had fled away—
Others were sure if we did not
Their chattels to convey.
The necks we wrung of chickens young,
Of turkeys and of geese,
The spring lambs ne'er the feeling knew
Of carrying a fleece;
We feasted on the fatted calf
That frisked about the yard,
And drank the merry apple-jack
And the humming cider hard,
And valuables of little bulk,
As spoons, and forks, and plate,
With us we as mementoes took
When we had drunk and ate."

And to the farmer tendered it
That he at it might look.
"That silver mug," the traveller said,
"Upon that battle day
From this identic mansion here

The occupants had fled the house
In dread of death, or worse;
I found this on a window-sill
Beside a well-filled purse. Beside a well-filled purse.
But with my booty when I fled,
The money and the mug,
Reproachful hands I seemed to feel At my heartstrings to tug. I was a sire myself; I thought

Of Mary Jane or Frank,
Or what its name might be, the child
That from this goblet drank— How it would miss its pretty cup! Perchance the child had died And of it the mourning parents had Memorial none beside. Amid the cannon's roar by day,

The silence of the night,
Tiny fingers, as I said before,
Would draw my heartstrings tight. And when the cruel was o'er Wherever I did roam,
I kept the cup in hope that I
Some day might take it home.

Now, sir," went on the traveller, "In this glad year of peace, Though I cannot restore to you Your chickens and your geese, This small memorial of your child I've brought a weary way, With my red right foot I've tramped the road From far Galveston Bay;
And the money that I robbed you of
I'm anxious to repay.
Th' exact amount I can't recall,

Th' exact amount I can't recall,
'Twas twenty-one or two Dollars, but p'raps the sum may be Precisely known by you.

The work of restitution will
My conscience be relieved.
If that the child that used this cup Has grown to manhood's years
(Or womanhood's), tell him (or her)

And I will wander to my home

By far Galveston Bay. "By jings!" the stalwart farmer cried, Dashing a tear away,
"Thou art the most honest man that I
Have seen this many a day.
Come in—thy secret's safe with me—
And eat and drink thy fill,
But here are thirty dollars change
From thy fifty-dollar bill.
And I threw not off the dollars odd,

And I threw not on the dollars odd,
And eke the interest,

And he thinks to himself, "'Tis just as well The vagabond never knew
That I have neither chick nor child And came here in '72." But when he goeth to Gettysburg On the morrow he'll be mad When he finds the mug is of pewter vile And the fifty bill is bad.

A Victim of the Seawanhaka.

[New York Herald Court Reports.] He was a sadly used up, lame man, and looked none the prettier because there was a bandage around his head and he carried his arm in a sling. It seemed hardly likely that human nature in so badly a damaged condition would care about getting drunk and rolling into area ways, but the officer said that such was the aspect of affairs when he picked him up. The magistrate in the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday gazed sadly at the much demolished man and said: "How in the name of wonder do you manage to get along at all, even when you're not drunk? How did you come by all these injuries anyway?" The lame man raised his head solemnly and muttered: "Got 'em the night o' the Seawanhaka lisaster."

At once all eyes were turned on him.
"Do you really mean that?" said His Honor, pityingly.
"I'm dead in airnest," said the other.

I never was more so in my life. Maybe that wasn't a night; maybe there wasn't a fire on board that boat, and maybe it didn't go through her like a streak o' greased ightnin', and maybe there wasn't a lot o' poor cusses that it gathered in; oh, maybe not," and the prisoner shook his head "Did you injure both your limbs that night?" asked the Court.

ceived your hurts?"

"Yes, both on 'em," murmured the man. "Oh, that was a tough night on me the night o' the Seawanhaka disaster was; a good many fellers caved in altegether, but I got my share of trouble so as I did." "Was it the fire did it?" asked His Honor. "No, 'twasn't the fire, I don't think,' and the prisoner fidgetted uneasily.

"Did you get it in the water, then, from the paddle wheel, or a log or something?"

"No, it couldn't be that."

"Well, what in the name of goodness were the conditions under which you re-

The prisoner hesitated.

"I don't think there was any condishuns about it," he said. "When Tim O'Hara fires a feller out of his bucket shop he's a summat uncondishunal man."

"But I thought you got your injuries on the night of the Seawanhaka disaster?" "So I did, Jedge. That was the oc-casion. Had it been New Years or the Fourth o' July I'd told you so, but it wasn't no sech thing, t'was only on the night of the Seawanhaka disaster." CAPT. W. B. KENDRICK. And his Honor sat thinking a long time before he could determine whether that lame man was inclined to deceive.

State of North Carolina.

Office Supt. Public Instruction. RALEIGH, Sept. 9th, 1879.

Gen. Agent University Pub. Co., RALEIGH, N. C., DEAR SIR :- It gives me pleasure to nform you that

Holmes' Readers and Speller, Manry's Geographies, Holmes' Grammars & History

have been adopted for use in the Public Schools of this State

JOHN C. SCARBOROUGH. · Supt. of Public Instruction.

These books will be furnished to the pupils for
FIRST INTRODUCTION at such low rates as will enable school officers and teachers to bring about a complete uniformity of text-books in the schools under their charge.

B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph. D., Gottingen, LL.D., Professor of Greek in Johns

Hopkins University, Baltimore. Rarely have text-books been greeted with so large a measure of favor and hearty appreciation, as these books by Professor Gildersleeve have received from the best scholastic and educational minds of the country. The author, now of national reputation as a scholar, has had very complete preparation for such a work. After being graduated at Princeton, he studied for several years in the Universities of Germany, where he received his Ph.D., etc., with highest honors. His subsequent life has been devoted to teaching and linguistic study. When the new and richly endowed Johns Hopkins University sought for a fit man for its chair of Greek, the appointment was conferred on Prof. Gildersleeve, after wide conference, and without his solicitation or effort, and his work as senior professor of the University attracts marked attention. He is also the presiding officer of the American Philogical Association.

Prof. Gildersleeve's Latin books are the product of this order of ability and educational training. Embodying the best results of recent studies in Latin philology, they are simple, clear and practical in method.

THE LATIN PRIMER.

THE LATIN PRIMER,

complete in itself, a naturally developed course for beginners, at once holds the interest of the pupil, and prepares him thoroughly for ready and intelligent use of Grammar and Reader, or Latin author. It supplies: "Maximum of Forms; Minimum of Syntax; Early Contact Forms; Minimum of Syntax; Early Contact with the Language in Mass."

A teacher in one of the leading High Schools of the country, who conducted a large class through this book, writes:

"We have just finished the Primer, having spent upon it thirty-four weeks; and I have been trying to realize my pupils' attitude towards the study, as compared with that of other classes I have known. They have the use of a larger vocabulary; their text-book has secured for them a careful drill in the normal terminations; they have been brought more into contact with the language in the concrete, and have, therefore, a more vivid interest in it; and they have been less perplexed by exceptional forms and difficult construction.

"The book is thoroughly alive, and will per-and difficult construction.

"The book is thoroughly alive, and will perforce make its students so." THE LATIN GRAMMAR is marked by its genuine scholarship, clear and logical arrangement of material, and a typography that pleasantly aids the eye. Its presentation of forms is plain and convenient; its definitions, rules and other statements are belefund pointed; and its translations of illustrative aramples are most striking models for stadents.

THE LATIN READER

has Fables and Stories; "De Gestis Alexandri," a most interesting narrative, chiefly from Caratius; one book of Casar's "De Bello Gallies," treated in a manner to make it an admirable drill in Latin Syntax; also notes and References to the Grammar, and a Vocabulary. THE LATIN EXERCISE-BOOK
